inMotion* Articles

“Cornerstones of good diabetes care: a look at the role of pharmacy, podiatry, optometry, and dentistry in the lives of people with diabetes” [electronic resource] / Rick Bowers. Knoxville, TN: Amputee Coalition of America, 2002. inMotion, January / February 2002. Diabetes not only affects daily health, but also puts those with the disease at greater risk for numerous secondary complications, including negative drug interactions, lower-extremity amputations, loss of vision, and teeth and gum problems. For these reasons, the healthcare areas of pharmacy, podiatry, optometry and dentistry could mean the difference between a life free of complications and a life of unnecessary suffering for diabetics.
